Martin Jay : Permanent Exiles before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Permanent Exiles:

Charts the flight of some of this century's most important thinkers from Nazi Germany to the United States. Jay explores the theories of The Frankfurt School -- among them, the work of Theodor Adorno, Leo Lowenthal and Herbert Marcuse -- as well, such as George Lichtheim, Hannah Arendt, and Henry Pachter.

About the Author Martin Jay is the author of, most recently, Cultural Semantics : Keywords of Our Time and The Dialectical Imagination: A History of the Frankfurt School and the Institute of Social Research, 1923-1950
