Great source of authentic pictures, camouflage, markings, and information about Polish fighters during WWII - LOVE ITBy Piotrek TuszynskiOne could argue that without Polish Fighting Squadrons within Royal Air Force, England would not be able to resist German Luftwaffe during Battle of Britain. Another example of Polish Forces making impact on history of modern times. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. ... a series on WWII aircraft of the secondary nations like Poland, Hungary and By Feldmar Twomblebee This is part of a series on WWII aircraft of the secondary nations like Poland, Hungary and, oddly, Portugal showing the paint schemes used by the fliers. There is data there but I bought the series for the amazing number of color illustrations of whatever was being flown. 0 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By Customer great book

This book describes in detail the camouflage and markings of the day fighters used by the Polish Air Force in 1939-47. Aircraft of Polish, French, British, American, Soviet and German origin are shown. Written by a well-known quartet of distinguished Polish aviation historians: Kopański, Belcarz, Gretzyngier and Matusiak. Many historical photos and color profiles.

"Let's cut to the chase: anyone interested in World War II Polish airpower should buy, beg or borrow this ripping read... an outstanding introduction to Polish military aviation – its origins, history, nomenclature, force structure and camouflage." (Cybermodeler)
