

(Free) Sinoland: The Subversion of Freedom's Bastion

Sinoland: The Subversion of Freedom's Bastion

H. John Poole, Foreword by Gen. Anthony C. Zinni USMC (Ret.)
*ebooks | Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook

Copyrighted Material

THE SUBVERSION OF FREEDOM'S BASTION

SINOLAND

H. JOHN POOLE: "LAST HUNDRED YARDS" AUTHOR
GEN. A.C. ZINNI USMC(RET.): FOREWORD

Copyrighted Material

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#1289623 in Books 2016-10-31 2016-10-31 Original language: English 8.25 x 5.50 x 1.251, #File Name: 0981865984467 pages | File size: 22.Mb

H. John Poole, Foreword by Gen. Anthony C. Zinni USMC (Ret.) : Sinoland: The Subversion of Freedom's Bastion before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Sinoland: The Subversion of Freedom's Bastion:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Americans should not be complacent or alarmist but very aware of China's goals and methods in the world. By CustomerWell written - clear and succinct; easy to read; cited sources well-respected. All Americans should be aware of China's growing influence --- in some cases obvious but often not --- on the U.S. economy, in our daily lives, and throughout the world. This book is NOT about a secret plot. It is about grand plans of which China's leaders talk openly and publicly. They intend to dominate the world and in the process feed and grow their own country. Generally peaceful economic means are used to achieve their goals but not when the country of concern is close to or along China's borders. Then actual military force or threats thereof have been or may be used, e.g., South China Sea. Of special concern is how China has affected and can affect U.S. national security by various, seemingly peaceful, means, which John Poole explains well. Discussion about appropriate actions the U.S. should take about China's influence is sorely needed. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. This book sheds light onto something that China hoped you'd never see. By Jessica Robinson Sinoland is H. John Poole's latest book which gives Americans a warning about the influence of Communist China in our world. On the surface China is an ally and strong trade partner however Poole exposes the psychological, legal, and public opinion fronts where China has the intent of fundamentally reshaping the US. Their goal is to weaken us until we are no longer a threat to their ultimate objectives. Recently it is becoming difficult for the average American to tell the difference between propaganda and real news. Avid readers of Poole's books will know he sticks to verifiable facts and gives cites reliable sources. Sinoland exposes eye opening comparisons to how our democratic institutions are being slowly molded into those reminiscent of the Chinese Communist regime. Poole warns us about how the Chinese have the ability to cripple our banking, our telecommunications, and our infrastructure. They have driven our media and affected our national security as well. Reliance on inexpensive Chinese food and medicine have a direct and often detrimental impact on our health. Reading Sinoland may make you uncomfortable and it should. There is nothing acceptable about an America weakened by an unrestricted warfare infiltrating our various industries, our politics, and our way of life. This is a type of warfare which China has waged on other countries and has been successful in doing so. H. John Poole has done us a service by illuminating the devious Communist Chinese forces at work. Sinoland will open your eyes to something that our enemies hoped you'd never see. Sinoland is not all doom and gloom as H. John Poole does give us a ray of hope at the end. We have the ability to prevent our subversion but the first step is understanding how in face we are being undermined. This is a must-read for all Americans especially those concerned about our future as a nation. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Every American should read this book but especially our newspapers and the Senate and Congress it's a real eye-opener By baddog Wake up America you're under attack!! But not with tanks and guns like in red Dawn That's a whole other style warfare fourth generation warfare it's called and we're losing badly

Perhaps Russia was only the scapegoat for another foreign attempt to influence the last U.S. election. To the extent that Washington has already allowed Communist China to interfere with America's internal functioning, it has placed the personal freedoms of all U.S. citizens at risk. "Sinoland" contains partial proof of PRC manipulation in 34 different subcategories of what the Chinese People's Liberation Army has been calling "Unrestricted Warfare" and U.S. military experts refer to as the nonmartial arenas of "4th Generation Warfare." This is a 13 part book. China's Multi-Faceted Modus Operandi PRC Exploitation of U.S. Natural Resources. China's Undermining of American Industry. PRC's Abetting of Washington's Insolvency. PRC Manipulation of U.S. Politics. China's Destabilization of American Society Influx of Chinese Citizens to the U.S. Chinese Military Presence in America. Increasing U.S. Dependency on China. Chinese Advice on How to Administer the U.S. PRC Attack on U.S. Government's Credibility. Cumulative Effect on National U.S. Security. PRC's Other Unrestricted Warfare Damage.

"Heavily illustrated and footnoted, Sinoland offers an exciting, though somewhat disturbing, view of Communist China's progress in an ongoing 4th-Generation Warfare (4GW) attack against America."--Military Officer (Magazine), January 2017 "Sinoland is another great book in ... [the] series."-- Tactics and Preparedness, December 2016 "Sinoland... chronicles ... Communist China's continuing expansion into America ... [via] non-military attacks aimed at undermining U.S. strategy."-- Oberlin Alumni Magazine, Spring 2017 "John Poole offers some sobering possibilities in what Chinese officials categorize as non-military attacks. How prepared are we for a hostile strategy that engages us in an economic, informational, political, environmental, or other non-military domain? In the end, the best deterrent is understanding the potential threat and being prepared to deal with it (former Head of CENTCOM)." -- Gen. Anthony C. Zinni USMC (Ret.), October 2016 "China's ... exploitative and expansionist policies are fact. The world, however, is reluctant to admit or address them. Admitting them discloses their reality; addressing them requires action--and many prefer denial and inaction. John Poole's engaging book, "Sinoland," however, reveals the secrets and proposes actions for the future of freedom and peace (former Head of 1st Marine Division)." --Gen. John H. Admire USMC (Ret.), October 2016 "[Most] Americans see warfare as one dimensional, as in ... George Patton driving his tanks across France. That style has long since passed [in]to asymmetrical warfare. Included ... [are] economic, electronic, environmental, subversive [aspects], and the use of third party nations to fight America and drain away its strength.... John Poole summons America to chart a new path (retired U.S. Army historian of 35 years)."--Kim Holien, October 2016 "[Sun Tzu] maxims represent a ... toolkit.... The PRC tends to play a long game to our short. By tracking long-game indicators most of us overlook, John Poole delivers a timely warning to all Americans: Regardless of whether China ever chooses to engage the U.S. in open war, China's strategic efforts to manipulate the upstream system clearly tilt the game board, and not in our favor (founder and editor of 'Red Team Journal'." --Dr. Mark Mateski, October 2016

About the Author Through an inverted military career, H. John Poole has discovered a few things that more promotable people miss. After spending two of his first four years as a combat commander, he did his last seven as an enlisted tactics instructor. That allowed him to see why U.S. troops have always had so much trouble with counterinsurgency, and short-range combat in general. Their tactical techniques are quite simply outmoded. Those techniques are so unlikely to surprise any capable foe as to be "pre-machinegun" in format. This little oversight on the part of their commanders and how to correct it form much of the framework for Poole's work. Since retirement from the U.S. Marine Corps in 1993, he has has traveled extensively and written 15 other tactics/intelligence supplements. He has also conducted multiday training sessions for 41 U.S. battalions, 9 schools, and 7 special operations units on how to develop advanced infantry technique. As most U.S. intelligence personnel know too little about the Eastern thought process and evolution of squad tactics, these supplements provide currently deployed GIs with a rare glimpse into their enemy's intentions. Poole is no stranger to the Communist and Islamist ways of doing things. In Africa, he has been to Morocco, Egypt, Sudan, Tanzania, South Africa, and Zambia. In Central and South America, he has visited over 20 Caribbean islands and every large nation except for Belize, Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, and Guyana. In Asia, he has missed only Mongolia and Laos. Within the Middle East, he has been to Turkey, Iran, Israel, Lebanon, and the Emirates. Between early tours in the Marine Corps (from 1969 to 1971), Poole worked as a criminal investigator for the Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI). After attending the State Police Academy for several months in Springfield, he worked out of the IBI's Chicago office on general criminal and drug cases.