michael berta This is extremely important subject matter. We owe this author John DeCamp a debt of gratitude for his courage and perseverance in writing this difficult book. If you are someone who strays from dark subject matter, I don't recommend it. But to those who want to know truth in order to make a difference in the world, it's a must read. 42 of 44 people found the following review helpful. Much Gratitude to Mr. DeCamp for Not Letting This Information Die By Quiet Deluxe Mr. DeCamp is one among a few who decided not to participate in the cover-up. What was going on throughout the 80's and 90's in Nebraska, across America, and beyond is appalling. Once you know about the extent of the complex human trafficking ring, you cannot un-know it. Most decent humans can't shut up about it at that point. Just as complex was the cover-up that followed a national outing of what was really going on at Franklin Credit Union and who was involved. John DeCamp names the names. He talks to the people that need to be talked to, and the result is the most complete and thorough documentation of what happened in Nebraska and beyond. If you want to truly understand the evil underbelly of America and the things that are hidden in plain sight and just under the surface, you must read this book. You will never see things the same again. 3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Very good read. Makes one suspect just how much "stuff" ... By Chiliguyfl Very good read. Makes one suspect just how much "stuff" is covered up. A rather complex read but well worth the time.

The shut-down of Omaha, Nebraska's Franklin Community Federal Credit Union, raided by federal agencies in November 1988, sent shock waves all the way to Washington, D.C. $40 million was missing. The credit union's manager: Republican Party activist Lawrence E. "Larry" King, Jr., behind whose rise to fame and riches stood powerful figures in Nebraska politics and business, and in the nation's capital. In the face of opposition from local and state law enforcement, from the FBI, and from the powerful Omaha World-Herald newspaper, a special Franklin committee of the Nebraska Legislature launched its own probe. What looked like a financial swindle, soon exploded into a hideous tale of drugs, Iran-Contra money-laundering, a nationwide child abuse ring, and ritual murder. Nineteen months later, the legislative committee's chief investigator died - suddenly, and violently, like more than a dozen other people linked to the Franklin case. Author John DeCamp knows the Franklin scandal from the inside. In 1990, his "DeCamp memo" first publicly named the alleged high-ranking abusers. Today, he is attorney for two of the abuse victims. Using documentation never before made public, DeCamp lays bare not only the crimes, but the cover-up - a textbook case of how dangerous the corruption of institutions of government, and the press, can be. In its sweep and in what it portends for the nation, the Franklin cover-up followed the ugly precedent of the Warren Commission.

About the Author During 16 years in office, former state Senator John DeCamp was cited, even by his enemies at the World Herald, as one of the most effective legislators in Nebraska history. A highly decorated Vietnam War veteran, in 1975 he initiated Operation Baby Lift, which evacuated 2,800 orphaned Vietnamese children. He practices law in Lincoln, Nebraska, is married, and is the father of four children.
