Various : The ISGAP Papers: Antisemitism in Comparative Perspective, Volume Two (Volume 2) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The ISGAP Papers: Antisemitism in Comparative Perspective, Volume Two (Volume 2):

The "Antisemitism in Comparative Perspective" seminar series of the Institute for the Study of Global Antisemitism and Policy (ISGAP) continues to generate a steady flow of high-quality presentations and papers on a wide range of topics relating to antisemitism. Between 2012 and 2014, ISGAP hosted seminars at Harvard University, McGill University, Columbia University Law School, Fordham University's Lincoln Center Campus in New York, the Hoover Institution at Stanford University, the University of Miami, Sapienza University (Rome), and other academic institutions. The present volume - a worthy follow-up to The Yale Papers: Antisemitism in Comparative Perspective (2015) - contains a selection of papers presented during this period. Like the seminars on which they are based, these papers cover topics that have profound implications for our understanding of contemporary antisemitism, its impact on Jews and non-Jews, and our efforts to combat this irrational yet enduring prejudice.

Table of contents: Introduction, Charles Asher Small; The Roots and Themes of Turkish Antisemitism, R?fat Bali; The Roots and Current Implications of Iranian Antisemitism, Matthias Kuntzel; Antisemitism in the Public and Private Discourse of Hezbollah, Matthew Levitt with Kelsey Segawa; Arab and Muslim Antisemitism: Reconsideration, Reflection, and Some Propositions, Salim Mansur; Radical Islamism and the Arab Upheaval, Meir Litvak; Antisemitism among Muslims in Europe, Günther Jikeli; Muslim Antisemitism: A Litmus Test for the West, Neil J.
